met again. The happy young woman lived in the family of J. F. Saunders. A few weeks ago Mrs. Saunders was taken ill with typhoid fever. Hannah Peterson took care of the house and nursed her faithfully. One day last week Hannah had a pre-

She confided in her lover, and he of course dis-couraged the idea and joked her in an affectionate way. She told one of the family she would be taken down with fever and never again go out of the house except in a coffin. She kept the presentment a secret from Mrs. Saunders.

Origin of "We Won't Go Home."

An interesting history of an old and ell-known comic tune was given by Prossor Ensel, a music teacher, in a speech the Music Teachers' Association. He aid that when the army of the first Napoleon was in Egypt, in 1799, the camp for a while was near the pyramids. One afternoon about sunset the band was playing. Their counsel said they were willing to The inhabitants of the desert had collected ear, and were listening to the music Nothing unusual happened until the band truck up a tune which we now hear under the name of "We Won't Go Home Till Morning." The reason was that they were listening to the favorite and oldest esterday.

NUMEROUS DESERTIONS. The Poorly Paid Soldiers Giving Uncl

Sam the Slip. Washington, August 11th.—The War Department officials are greatly exercised over the number of desertions from the army, and especially as it is increasing every year. During the six months ending June 30th last the records show an increase of 135 over the number reported for the corresponding period last year. For the past six months of the present year there were 1 467 desertions against 1 209 for the same period in 1888. Fully seven-eighths of the desertions took place during the first year of the enlistment. The importance of hese figures is appreciated by General Schofield and Adjutant General Kelton, each of whom have given the subject much thought and discussion lately. Some plan of action which will look toward a modifi cation of the existing articles of war will receive their earnest advocacy, and be presented to Congress. The numerous deser tions, especially from larger army posts, are a source of much anxiety to the officials, and they will strike at the source of the evil if such a thing is possible. Quite a number of the officers thought one of the best ways to break up the desertion in the army would be to put a stop to soldiers doing so much extra work. When a man enters the army he expects to become a soldier. When he finds that in addition to the duty of a soldier he has to do all the work around the garrison and fficers' quarters, the soldier feeling dies out and he deserts at the very first opporunity, generally in the first year. The decrease in the number of useless calls now prevalent at the army posts will also, it is suggestions as to What May be Done the Near Future.

From the Boston Herald Assuming the commercial success of the ise of electricity as a motive power for running street cars, it seems to us that the time is soon coming when not only what is called the rapid transit problem will in this way receive a satisfactory solution, but also a settlement will be given to some of the now vexed social problems which milk and its products in the United States spring out of the congestion of population within the narrow limits of a great city. There is clearly no need of crowding peo ple together in tenement houses, provided a means can be found of giving them ample room to live in within reasonable distance of those places where they carry on their daily work. At the present time a given of extreme privation, I shall cite a very considerable number of those who are employed in the workshops, stores and offices of this city live either in the suburban wards of the city or in some of its surrounding towns; but the number of those so living would be greatly increased if the country within a circuit of ten miles of the City Hall could be reached in a relatively short time and at a small expense Settlements are apt to grow up in the mmediate neighborhood of the suburban stations of our various railway lines, and the demand for land in the vicinity of these is sufficiently intense to carry the price up, and prevent those of humble means from buying land and owning home steads. Between stations, or a mile or two distant from them, there are in most instances large quantities of land which could be purchased at very low prices; but the obstacle in the way of the purchase of to make one pound of butter, and about land so located by those who are compelled wineglasses of raw spirit, and nine pints of living is that the time occupied in going water. It is estimated that it requires 15,000,000 cows to supply the demand for To feed these cows 60,000,000 acres of land a e under cultivation. The agriculture and dairy machinery and implements in use are worth $200,000,000. The men em ployed in the business number 750,000, and the horses over 1,000,000. The cows and horses consume annually 30,000,000 to of hay and nearly 90,000,000 bushels corn meal, about the same amount of oat neal, 275,000,000 bushels of oats, 2,000,00 bushels of bran, and 30,000,000 bushels o corn, to say nothing of the brewery grains sprouts and other questionable feed of vaious kinds that are used to a great extent. He packed it on to the train, and, upon arriving at the ball ground yesterday afternoon, bade the animal lie down in the shade of the special stand, where the visiting players might behold him and be inspired. Well, the dog did it.

Goodenough was the first up for the Sacramentos, and when he failed to rap on the usual home-run on the first pitche ball, the cranks in the grand stand ex changed apprehensive glances, and hedge on their bets. The home nine did no score in the first, and 'Frisco made one in their half of the inning. The expert thought Zeigler was not up to his usua mark. In the second, however, confidence was restored by the making of two runs b the home team and a goose egg for th visitors. Sacramento kept adding to her score right along in each inning up to and including the fifth inning, while the other side kept duplicating its goose-egg. Shea couldn't stop a balloon; Hanley threw every ball over th grand stand instead of to first; the whol nine was more or less demoralized; and i looked like one of those old-time jug handled games, which the 'Friscos hav been indulging in of late. To add to thei discomfiture in the fifth inning, Newbert smashed the ball hard down against the center-field fence, and, grabbing his cap in his hand, tore around the diamond like a

Manager Finn squirmed about uneasily on the bench, and his players looked the picture of disgust. The score, when 'Frisco went to the bat in this inning, stood: Sacramento 7, San Francisco 1. It looked hopeless for them, considering the amateurish game they were putting up.

But just at this moment a long, drawnthe appearance of Shea's dog. A policeman chased him out, but it was too late. The 'Friscos had seen him, and new hope buoyed their spirits. Donahue took first on balls, and on a passed ball went to third. Shea also was made a present of a foot-hold on the initial bag, through Zeigler's inability to put the ball over the plate. Sheaimmediately started for second on the first pitched ball, and McLaughlin thought he could throw him out. It proved to be a costly thought, however, for Shea landed safely on the bag, and Donahue scored. Shea tallied on Levy's single, and then a rest was taken Sacramento added one more to their score in the sixth, but 'Frisco piled up three more. It might have been a great deal more than three had not Senator Gagus stopped the fun by making a grand threeringed-circus catch of Shea's intended three-bagger. Excitement was now running high, both among the players and the "Only two more and we'll tie the score!" yelled Captain Powers to his players. 'They'll never catch us!" was Captain Gagus' battle cry.

Both sides were desperate in the seventh. Newbert, while at the bat, was hit by the ball, and started off for first. He had not made a very marked effort to avoid the ball and the crowd laughed good-naturedly at the maneuver. Umpire Sheridan, however, caught on and ordered Newbert back to the plate, at the same time remarking :

Newbert made a little hit and was thrown out at first. Roberts and O'Day followed, but were equally unfortunate. But, to even matters up the visitors did not tally either in the seventh-that "lucky seventh" which 'Friscos' opponents have all learned to fear. This made the Sacramentans breath freer, and many wagers were renewed. But that mangy cur of Shea's had upset should have been down completely-the eighth-gave them two more runs and tied

The excitement that prevailed when the ninth opened was beyond description. Everybody stood up and held their breath. Veach stepped up to the plate as sober and serious as a priest—no funny business now—and he smashed one out to left that looked a sure three-bagger, But that nimble boy, Levy, was out there and gath-Levy also caught McSorley's long fly. Gagus went on an easy grounder to Donahue, and a hush came over the grand stand. But when the 'Friscos went out in one-two-three order, too, and Sheri-dan ordered another inning, bedlam broke loose worse than ever. Amid a deafening din of yells, and hoarse demands to "Line temporarily, and the Colonel has concluded 'er out!" and "Smash 'er!" Newbert, that Balz is not speedy enough to stay with Roberts and O'Day faced Barry, but their efforts were in vain. Another, and the Perrier stepped up to the plate for 'Frisco, and rapped out a two-bagger. Everybody play ball! yelled Powers Swett was next up, and succeeded in lift ing one down into center. Perrier started like a scared deer for home, and had jus passed third when loud yells of "Go back to back !" from every member of his team stopped him in his wild career. He go back to third safely, and it was a luck thing for him that he did, as McLaughlir was waiting for him, ball in hand, at the plate. Confusion was at its hight again, as Powers took up his bat and stood over the Zeigler's left leg was high in the air preparatory to delivering the ball, when, to his horror, he saw that confounded dog of Shea's trotting along toward the visitors bench. In an instant the vision of defer flashed across his mind, and he tossed the ball to Powers weakly. Powers smashed the ball, and smashed it hard. Perrier the ball, and smashed it hard. Perrier and Swett trotted home and the day was lost.

THE "CIVIL SABBATH."

THE CRUSADE OF THE AMERICAN SAB-BATH UNION THEREFOR.

Alleged Wickedness.

the American Sabbath Union, spoke at the Clunie Opera House yesterday afternoon to an audience of about 120 persons, about one half of whom were gentlemen and the other half ladies and children. The reverend gentleman is making a campaign in in five runs, but the Stocktons, through a lend gentleman is making a campaign in base on balls, a couple of hits, and muffs behalf of what he calls a "civil Sabbath." by Daily and Wilson, piled up enough The idea is to get up petitions to Congress, asking that body to enact laws to prevent the transmission and handling of mails on Sunday, and to close all departments of the Coughlin, in the second inning, had the nail of the first finger of his pitching hand have the several State Legislatures pass knocked off, but he continued his box-work, although in great pain. The score laws enforcing a general observance of Sunday "as a day of rest." Mr. Crafts ex-plained: "The American Sabbath Union in commerce and wealth. Why should is a union of true Americans of all sections to preserve the Sabbath as a day of rest and worship. The right arm of our Union's work is to promote the religious Sabbath. the left arm is to preserve the civil Sabbath. These two things, the Christian Sabbath on the one hand, the American Sabbath on the other, are as distinct as my two arms that resemble and co-operate, and yet are by no means the same.

"Such a distinction is itself the best answer to most of the difficulties that good men find in Sunday laws. The religious Sabbath treats Sunday work and dissipa-tion as sins against God; the civil Sabbath considers them only as crimes against man. Of the Ten Commandments, there are several which forbid the same things as are forbidden in the laws of our land-murder, theft, adultery, false witness. Sunday work -but, while religion forbids these things as sins against God, the State forbids them only as crimes against man. In other countries where church and State are mixed and in our own country in other days the ground of Sunday laws was not always perceived; but in recent years legislation on this subject has been based, not on God's will, but on 'the general welfare.' A homely illustration or two will make this point clear. A shrewd Iowa farmer put up in his melon patch this sign: Boys, do not touch these melons, for they are green, and God sees you.' The church

"We are pushing," continued the speaker, this petition against Sunday mails, against unday work in the military service of the dovernment, in interstate commerce, and in the District of Columbia and the Territories-in short, a petition which asks Congress to supplement the laws of the States in this matter by giving Sunday rest to all who are under the jurisdiction of the General Government. This petition is the largest ever presented to any Government, representing an army of ten millions of petitioners, besides the Cardinal of the Cath-olic Church, whose name weighs much in legislative halls, whatever it counts. Labor organizations with a total membership of half a million, have taken distinct action indorsing the petition. The petition is, therefore, not only the largest ever gathered, but unique also in being the only one n which labor organizations and churches SANTA CRUZ, August 11th.—The result of in my hand a saw which I brought from the ball game to-day was: Keanes 6, Santa Cruz 12. The Santa Cruz and Stockton used when he there toiled as a working In presenting this petition to the Knights of Labor I held up this saw as an ancient badge of knighthood in abor, reminding them that no one who appreciated the story of Christ could despise honest toil in himself or any other man. And I say to you what I did not say to them, that the church that was founded by a carpenter ought never to be out of sympathy with the true interests of workingmen. "As to the Sunday mails, Toronto and London are the two witnesses that swiftly answers all the objections. In both of these cities those who handle the wealth of the community in the mails have long been given their Sunday rest with no embar assment, either in cases of sickness or i mergencies of business-the Saturday and Monday telegrams taking the place of Sun-

"The second objection, that the proposed Sunday law is unconstitutional, an objection made equally against State Sunday laws, is quickly answered by stating the fact that the Supreme Courts of all the States in which the matter has been tested have declared Sunday laws constitutional. But as the objection is raised anew, it is well to recall the grounds upon which these decisions have been based. The objectors always quote the article of the Constitution that prohibits Congress 'to make a law regarding an establishment of religion.' The word 'establishment' is a historic word of no doubtful interpretation. When it was written into the Constitution, there was in Europe, as there is to-day, the custom of selecting a single sect and supporting it by the State, which also appointed its officers. "A Sunday law, in order to come under this prohibition, would need to require the support of ministers of religion and their political appointment, which no advocate f Sunday legislation proposes or desires. But the latter part of this provision, which requires that Congress shall make no laws nterfering with the free exercise of reigion does have a bearing upon Sunday laws. When Congress ordered Sunday work in the mail service, Congress itself broke this constitutional provision, for it made it forever after impossible, by this religious test, for men devoted to the church and unwilling to give up its servces, and conscientious about doing Sunday work, to hold position in this largest department of the public service.
"Yet more fundamental is the objection that this Sunday law is inconsistent with liberty. When Cambyses invaded Egypt, knowing that they worshiped cats, he had each soldier in the front rank of his army take in his left hand, in the place of a shield, a sacred cat. The Egyptians dared not strike lest they should kill a god, and so the invaders conquered them without a "well, I guess not" manner, way over on one side of his head. Put it on straight, sonney, or you will soon be accused of own lusts, and who march in upon us with our sacred word, 'Liberty,' as their shield. Hayes and Balz have been released from the Oaklands. Hayes was only engaged temporarily, and the Colonel has concluded you graduate? Who was your teacher? They offer themselves as teachers of liberty you graduate? Who was your teacher?' they answer, 'Bismarck.' Now we understand what they mean by personal liberty, the liberty of Bismarck, the liberty of one person to do what he likes regardless of the ights of all below him. The reversed Bismarcks' who come to this country be-lieve in personal liberty, that is, liberty of of the rights of all above him. We believe in popular liberty, the liberty of the whole people, and the liberty of each person only so far as it is consistent with the liberties of others. The circle is a symbol not of eternity only, but also of liberty. Personal liberty is the space within a circle bounded on all sides smoothly by the rights of The speaker said that New Orleans had tried the Seventh Day Adventist plan of the lawless Sunday and tired of it three years ago. He went on to demonstrate how the Seventh Day Adventists could be brought into harmony with other denominations on the Sunday question, and suggested that they be taken on excursions by ocean until they crossed the Sunday line (the 180th degree), and when brought back again they would be observing the Christian Sunday, instead of Saturday, and it would be all the same to them. The proposed national Sunday rest law, at the Seventh Day Adventists could be brought posed national Sunday rest law, at the utmost, would not affect more than one A Specimen "Fiend."

As a reporter was crossing J street, at the thousand of these Seventh Day people, as they cannot be in the mail and military junction of Second, last night, he passed a service and interstate commerce, and yet bethless toil to-day."

Mr. Crafts said that the postoffice service was filled by an irreligious set. The De-partment requires that no man having con-scientious scruple against working on Sunday shall be employed in that branch of the service. State rights have been interfered with by Congress, which has decreed that the Government employes may dis-turb the rest and worship of the people of Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts. Field Secretary of separate States by the running of mail trains on Sunday.

From the origin of the history of man, he asserted, the main track down to the present day has been the seventh day of the week for rest and worship. A few sects have switched off on side-tracks, but they are mostly back again.

Any man, he said, who observes Saturday as a day of rest, complies with the fourth commandment, but in this country the majority want to observe Sunday, and the will of the majority should be legalized and enforced. California is the only State the people should see to it that the Legislature brings her into the fold. California is the hotbed of the continental Sabbath in she not be one of the leading States in character.

The speaker concluded by stating that on a trip through K street yesterday, from Sixth to Second, and thence to the depot, he counted 123 places of business open and only 26 that were closed. Five-sixth of the merchants are doing seven days work for six days' pay. Without any law on the subject, the citizens should circulate a petition to all business men to close on Sunday; and thus, while getting rest by voluntary means, they would be accumulating material for a Sunday law.

It was announced that a State convention of Sunday law advocates would be held in San Francisco next Thursday evening, and a long list of Sacramento delegates thereto was read and indorsed by the audience. A request was then made for all who favored a Sunday law to rise, and ninetysix persons responded. When the con trary question was put fourteen rose, many others remaining seated.

SATURDAY'S TRAGEDY Mrs. Shellars Still Alive-Further Particulars About the Bloody Affair. Mrs. John Shellars, who was shot by John Henning Saturday evening, was still alive this morning at last accounts, but the doctors have little hope of her recovery. The opinion that he did form, though, was that a third party did the shooting, instead of either Henning or the woman. Mrs. Shellars, he says, was sitting in a chair when he entered, and on the floor, just beside the chair, lay the pistol with which the shooting had been done. Directly across the room—some distance from the woman— lay Henning upon the floor. From the positions of the two persons, he says it does not look that the man did it. However, this is only an opinion, and he admits he may be mis-taken. The third party he says might be Mrs. Henning, as he once heard that she threatened to kill both her husband and the Shellars woman. Mr. Acock was one of the first persons in the place after the tragedy, and states that three others fol-lowed close at his heels. As soon as he saw the condition of the woman, he advised that stimulants be given her. Instead of this the others gave her ice water.

He then began meddling with the body of Henning, changing the position of the arms, and the like. Acock remon strated again, but met with another state ment of "I'm an officer," etc.

Three Swift Steamers Competing Between London, August 11th.—The coean racers started off in fine style from Queenstown on Thursday. We must now wait until the result is cabled from New York. Thousends of people are hid in their indicators of people who were frantic in their enthusiasm for impostor. Queenstown and New York. Teutonic, and the offer was increased to any amount in like proportion that the Teutonic would never beat the City of Paris' record. This centlement was increased to the only record. This centlement was increased to any amount in like proportion that the Paris' record. This centlement was a series of certain snakes, and certain bipeds are captivated by a creature who is a tigress and a serpent in one.

Bristol Times and Mirror: The jury found the only records. Paris' record. This gentleman was on the Teutonic on her trial trip to Portsmouth and based his bets on engineers' talk. Steamboatmen, who watched the Teutonic during her run down to Portsmouth, say that while she is a splendid vessel, it is not in her to equal the City of Paris' speed. The Inman people claim that the City of least ten hours. The City of New York, the City of Rome and the Teutonic left Mersey almost at the same time and steamed down to Queenstown in sight of one another. The City of Rome arrived there first, the City of New York second and the Teutonic last. In getting away from Queenstown for the open sea the Teutonic was two hours behind the others, because she had to wait for the mails. The City of New York had only two sacks of mail special, mailed by people who had faith in her getting out first, while the Teutonic carried 700 mail bags.

The time of each steamer leaving Queenstown was: The City of Rome, 10 A. M.; the City of New York, 1:30 P. M., and the Teutonic, 2:05 P. M. They all left amid immense cheering by the crowd on shore. When the Teutonic was fairly off she plunged through the sea at full speed after the two vessels ahead of her, which were flying westward, and the way the foam was flying from her bows increased somewhat the faith in her. There is no doubt that the commanders will force the utmost speed out of each vessel.

The Teutonic carried 248 saloon and 558

EMPEROR WILLIAM Chauncey M. Depew's Impressions of the Young German Ruler. LONDON, August 11th .- The chief topic of litical interest of the week everywhere is the visit of Emperor William. Thousands of Englishmen have flocked to Portsmouth and Aldershot on purpose to see what the young ruler was like. All the Americans who could go went, too, among them being Chauncey Depew. Chauncey mef the Em-

'I was on board the Teutonic," said Depew to the World correspondent, "when the Emperor came over the side. I met him once before in Tyrol, with his grand, father, when the chances of his becoming Emperor seemed very remote. I thought then a manly, self-possessed young ow. Now he looks every inch an Emperor in all that that word means from a nodern or mediaeval standpoint. He looked, as far as the nineteenth century conditions would permit, what Frederick the Great might have been in his century. His sole idea seems to be militarism on land and sea for the protection of the German Empire and the maintenance of its unity power.

"He has taken very careful notes of one of the greatest naval military displays the world has ever seen-an array of armament which was intended to astonish him and show him the value of England as an ally and her danger as an enemy.

"You should have seen him look at those new cannon which fire twelve shots a minute on the Teutonic. He examined them inside and out. Turning to an officer at his side he said emphatically, 'We must have those guns and quick, too.' He listened with mild interest to the description of the fine cabius and luxurious accommodations for passengers, but what he wanted to know all about was those twin screwswhat they could do under pressure.

Among other things Depew discovered during his Portsmouth visit, he says, was that there was a growing sentiment over here that the United States was spoiling for a fight with somebody and would rather refer England than anybody else. Depew found this keynote in the speeches of Lord George Hamilton and other dignitaries on the Teutonic, who in their speeches harped upon the difficulties with Canada. Depew astonished them by making light of their gloomy apprehensions and treating Canada as a willing maiden only waiting The Prince of Wales' doctor would not allow him to ride with the German Emperor to the sham battle at Aldershot. There is a good deal of gossip afloat now about the growing infirmities of the Prince of Wales. His son Albert Victor took his father's place on the field in the full uniform of his regiment and made a contrast that spectators could not help drawing be between the manly young Emperor and the effeminate Prince, who seems no further of from the British throne than Prince liam seemed from the German throne five years ago, hardly flattering to "collars Depew left on Friday for Paris. Joseph J. O'Donaghue leaves here tomorrow for a trip through some interior Saturday on the Umbria. This week he dined with Parnell. The World correspondent asked if Parnell referred to the falling off in subscriptions to the Irish cause in America. "No," said O'Donaghue, "he said nothing about it. He told me much in confidence which I should like to say to Ameri-

PUBLIC OPINION.

killing her husband and the father of her children. Regarding the case Labouchere was asked for his opinion: "That the woman is quilty I haven't the faintest doubt. I have followed the evidence pretty closely, and am quite satisfied that had I been a juryman I should have concurred in the

In response to a request from the Herald, the editors of several of the most prominent provincial papers telegraphed their opinions as follows: Liverpool Courier: In spite of all that has been published expressive of sympathy with Mrs. Maybrick and of the continued doubt of her guilt, there are welcome indications that the excitement is cooling down, and that sober reflection is reassert-ing itself in a position which had temporarily been usurped by passionate fury. Fac-titious agitation will, no doubt, go on, and fresh developments may be expected. The monstrous assumption that the Judge acted as a partisan bigot, and that the jury were twelve men in whom ignorance and inhu-manity reigned supreme; was bound to be disregarded as untenable and is already being repudiated.

London, August 11th.—The ccean racers started off in fine style from Queenstown on Thursday. We must now wait until the result is cabled from New York. Thousands of pounds are laid in private betting here, principally by Americans abroad, who take a great interest in the race. Singularly enough ell offer large odds in favor and the pearl of innocence, Florence May.

Sheffield Telegraph: Mrs. Maybrick is the latest idol of a class of people who went wild in their idolatry of Jessie McLaugh-lan; who were frantic in their enthusiasm for impostor Orton; who sorrowed over the conviction of miscreant Lipski, and would let loose upon society if they could that pearl of innocence, Florence Maygularly enough all offer large odds in favor of the City of New York against the Teutonic. In a group of Americans in the Metropolitan Hotel smoking-room last night, one offered £100 to £10 against the Tentonic and the offer room to £10 against the Tentonic and the offer room to £10 against the certain such as the certain such a who is a tigress and a serpent in one.

Bristol Times and Mirror: The jury found the only verdict it was possible to find—that of guilty-and that that decision will prove a right one there can be no doubt. Dundee Advertiser: The verdict is just, but I do not oppose the movement for a reprieve. I think, however, that the Home Secretary has no rational alternative but to hang Mrs. Maybrick or set her at liberty. Paris has not shown yet what she really can do do, and say that before the season is can do do, and say that before the season is flict of scientific evidence and the habits of the deceased raised a doubt, of which Mrs. Maybrick should have had the benefit. The case shows very clearly the necessity for a Court of criminal appeal in this country.

Aberdeen Journal: The guilt of Mrs. Maybrick is not conclusively demonstrated by the evidence. A Scotch jury would probably have returned a verdict of "not proven.

an overwhelming case has been made out.
The whole case, indeed, shows once more the great desirability of a Court of appeal in capital cases. A number of other opinions insist upon the necessity of a Court of appeal. A few claim that the evidence was insufficient to convict. None claim that the woman is innocent.
